The Four Men Now on Trial Charged With Shooting at Car.

The trial of the Fulton riot cases was called for final disposition in the Hustings Court yesterday, and after hearing the testimony the jury were adjourned until 10 o'clock to-day.

The charges against the principals, A. B. Jordan, John I. Lammy, T. J. and E. Kane, are that of firing a pistol and throwing stones at cars in Fulton during the recent street railway strike, and this is their second trial, they having been acquitted of the charge of riot at the former one.

the merit of the attraction, an audience

Rogers Brothers in London.

Rogers Brothers in London.

"The Rogers Brothers in London." John J. McNally's latest vaudeville farce, will be the attraction at the Academy tonight. It will be presented by those celebrated comedians, Gus and Max Rogers, with a number of popular players assisting. It is said to be the best of the series of plays in which the Rogers Brothers have yet appeared. There is an abundance of fun of the sort usually introduced into their plays.

Since Klaw & Erlanger first presented the Rogers Brothers as stars, five years ago, in John J. McNally's farce, "A Reign of Error." It has been the policy of this progressive firm to give them a larger and more important production each season. Marked advancement each year was shown in "In Wall Street," "In Central Park," "In Wushington" and "In Harvard." the great success of last season, until it seemed that in the two latter productions the limit of excellence in entertaining interest, scenic effects and controlled the specific start and season and season effects and controlled the season.

Grace George.

Grace George, who is to be seen tomorrow night and Thursday matinee and night at the Academy in "Pretty Pegsy" is one of the youngest women on the American stage, yet in a period of three years she has contributed no fewer than four diverse and striking portrayals. Her Honoria, in "Her Majesty," the first of these, was as intensely dramatic as her Lelia Crefton, in "Under Southern Skies"; the second was womanly, and her Gilberte, in "Frou Frou," the third, was girlish and ingenuous. All those qualities are said to be manifested in her present delineation of the girl Peg Wofington, in Frances Aymar Mathews' peturesque romante comedy, "Pretty Iregs."

The elder Terry, who is proprietor of Terry's Hall on Ashland Street, was charged first with selling whiskey after aundown on the eve of election and secondly with selling whiskey on Sunday, 'Squire Lewis dismissed the first charge. Under the second he found the prisoner guilty, and then proceeded to impose one of the severest penalties vr known in the county. He days in jail and revoked the license, Terry, who was represented by Messra. Ryan and English, took an appeal.

The County Court met yesterday and transacted considerable of the regular business of the term.

The Childrey contempt case was set for hearing next Monday. The resolution from the supervisors in reference to the fallure of the constables to enforce the dog law was not presented, but will be in course of time, and the court will probably order an investigation. There will probably be considerable of a stirup over this dog law.

The Bijou.

"Little Church Around the Corner," a melodrama in four acts, was given its initial presentation before a Richmond nudlence at the Bijou Theatre last night. It is a play depicting the trials of a wife with a dissipated husband. Sho works as a stenographer for a lawyer, who seeks to ingratiate himself into her fayor, and when the husband inherits a fortune he undertakes to separate the man and woman and to get control of the fortune and the little girl of the couple. John Pannell, the negro who has been in jail several days, awaiting trial on the charge of stealing from Mr. Brauer, has cenfessed his guilt to the treasurer, and has revealed the whereabouts of the stolen goods, some of which has been recovered. One of the things was a handsomely embroidered ladies' night gown. Pannell undressed to go to bed in jail one night and he had on a handsomely embroidered night gown. The prisoners pulled it off of him and cut it up into handscribers. The actual confirmation of Pannell's guilt was obtained from some of these pieces found and identified. Pannell himself obstinately held out a while and finally confessed. He says he will throw himself on the mercy of the court.

ELECTROLYSIS MATTER IS AGAIN REFERRED

The Water Commission had the electrolysis matter up again last night, and a latter was read from the Passenger and Fower Company, still contending for their proposition for srbitration, which was recently rejected by the committee.

Mr. Charles R. Winston was present and spoke for arbitration on behalf of the company, and finally the cultre matter was referred to Superintendent Bolling, of the water works; City Attorney Pelevand and Challeman John Mann, Jr., of the committee, for report.

The city and the company are still far apart on the proposition and it does not look now as if they will ever reach a common ground out of court.

The committee disposed of some routine business.

LITERARY FEAST FOR NEXT FRIDAY

Bishop Randolph Delivers Annual Address Before Virginia Historical Society.

On Friday evening of this week the Virginia Historical Society offers its anmual literary feast to the people of Richmond. This year no less a man than Bishop A. M. Randolph, one of the ablest cholars in the country, will deliver th address.

The annual meeting of the society will be held, as usual, in the historic hall of the House of Delegates, beginning at 8 clock. The first half hour will be devot.

oclock. The first half hour will be devoted to the transaction of important business and in the uncommon pleasure of hearing the annual report of the distinction of the president of the organization. Captain W. Gordon McCabe.

Bishop Randolph has selected a very broad and deep subject for discussion that evening. Two things are quite certain. He will have to hear him as learned and cultured an audience as can be gathered in Richmond. Those attending will have the pleasure and satisfaction of hearing an admirable address.

Bishop Randolph will speak of "The Educational Functions of Historical Studies"—not the importance of the study of history in schools, that is assumed, what the far broader conception of tile theme, the great lessons of citizenship and government to be gleaned from carriest consideration of the stories of nations.

The public is cordinily invited to hear
